Maths Update

With there only being one week left to go until half term, I wanted to update you with our priorities for Maths this year. It has been absolutely fantastic to see the children in all classes getting stuck into various Maths concepts and it seems that the teachers have been impressed by how well they have settled back into routines being ready and eager to learn! We were very conscious at the beginning of the Academic Year to identify ways in which we could support the children in 'catching up' and to recognise those that need extra support.

Throughout the year, children will be recapping and consolidating on previous learning before moving on to the current year's content. This is to ensure every child is ready to progress and are confident to tackle new learning. We are also well aware that all pupils need challenging tasks to engage with the content further and promote deep mathematical thinking.

Our priorities this year are:

- ◆ To ensure all children re-engage fully with the subject of Maths after the Coronavirus lockdown, developing in confidence, knowledge and skills in order to maximise progress
- ◆ To further embed our approach to teaching fluency in arithmetic skills so this is consistent across the school
- ◆ To ensure there are intrinsic opportunities to develop and apply reasoning and problem-solving skills across the Maths curriculum

Last year, we were developing the children's independent approach to reasoning and problem solving with teachers creating 'Dive Deeper' templates that pupils, who are ready to progress, can access in order to deepen their learning of concepts further. This year, we would like to embed this across the school and give all pupils intrinsic opportunities to grapple and problem solve with Maths. We are in the process of organising training for teachers to build upon ideas and resources to enhance a rich, effective 'mastery' curriculum.

With technology being a huge factor during lockdown, we are keen to carry on where the children left off developing their fluency in times tables on TTrackstars (which already seems to be a huge hit from Y2-Y6) and the use of Maths Shed to enable children to practice basic skills. We've been announcing weekly TTrackstars 'Class Champions' in our Zoom assemblies as well as in the newsletter to help motivate the children and are always looking for ways to promote independent learning.

As always, we appreciate your support in helping children with Maths at home whether this be through playing games, spotting Maths outside, encouraging high quality homework and facilitating the use of online platforms.

I am confident that the children are settling in well and that Maths remains a subject that children enjoy. Here's to another fantastic year of learning despite (I'm sure!) challenges along the way.

HARVEST COLLECTION

As the half term draws to a close, we wanted to provide our school community with the chance to make a collective offering of food for those in need, as is traditional at our Harvest Festival. Despite the fact that Covid might have prevented us from having our usual community celebration of harvest, we felt that this chance to actively demonstrate an ethical and equitable approach and empathy for those less fortunate than ourselves is a key aspect of the annual school cycle of celebration. In fact, the role of school communities in undertaking this charitable act of compassion seems more relevant in these times than ever before.

Therefore, we will be collecting donations of non-perishable food goods (in particular tinned items), to be distributed in the locality or donated to the Penzance food-bank. If you would like to make a contribution, please can you send it in with your child throughout next week and we will organise it being distributed.

As a school we will work with the children to consider why such community work is so important and would ask that you reinforce this with conversations at home.

Finally, next week's newsletter will be dedicated to presenting the children's work relating to the theme of Harvest.

Thank you in advance for any support you can provide with this.

All the best

Rob Hamshar

CHARTWELLS EAT THEM TO DEFEAT THEM CAMPAIGN

Encouraging kids to eat more vegetables!

We're pleased to announce that we have partnered with Public Health England, Channel 4, Sky, Veg Power, Coop, ASDA and Sainsbury's on a NEW Eat Them to Defeat Them campaign. The campaign aims to encourage children to eat more vegetables as research shows that 33% of children (5-10 years) are eating less than one portion of vegetables per day
(source: NNDSS, waves 5-9 (2012-2017))

To learn more, scan the below QR code...

What is the campaign?

- A fun activity book with delicious recipes available as a printed copy in select supermarkets across the country or as a digital download
- A selection of engaging cook-along videos from Chef Andrew in The Super Yummy Kitchen supported by Nutritionist Meg and Ken Tee

How can you support?

We would love for you to help promote our new Eat Them to Defeat Them campaign to encourage more children to eat their veggies, fuelling them for a day of fun and learning.

To help share the message you can:

- Distribute the digital activity booklet released on Monday 5th October and available to download here to parents via your school newsletter or email distribution list
- Promote The Super Yummy Kitchen Youtube channel (link) on your school website and social media channels as this is where the fun cook-along videos will be hosted
- Re-tweet and re-share The Super Yummy Kitchen social media posts
