Geography at St Hilary

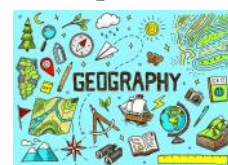

Mrs Sandow and I have recently taken over the leadership of History and Geography at St Hilary and are currently in the process of auditing our provision so that we can continue to provide an inspiring, relevant and useful education for your children in these areas.

I've started to get my teeth into Geography this term by joining the 'Geographical Association', talking to the children and looking around our school environment for clues about what we are already doing really well.

Findings from initial audit:

- Some of the children (mostly upper KS2) know what 'geography' is and how it relates to maps, countries, biomes, the world, ...
- Our children love learning about different countries and cultures!
- Most of the children can explain why learning geography is important. Comments like 'I'd like to travel when I'm older' and 'it's good to know about how other people live' were frequently heard
- Once the children knew what geography was, they could point to examples on the walls and in their project books.
- Every child spoken to could remember a class trip or experience that linked their project to geography. A lot of our projects have Geography at their heart, but children don't necessarily know that what they're learning is 'geography'

Next steps:

- Supporting the children in being more aware of the presence of geographical skills and knowledge in their learning.
- Ensuring teachers make the most of geographical opportunities within projects and day-to-day teaching, evidencing these in project books, displays, writing books etc.
- Further embedding the use of our amazing environment within our projects and documenting this.

The whole staff team have been working on producing Knowledge Organisers as you will have previously read about I'm sure; some of these will link to specifically our geography topics, as prescribed by the National Curriculum documentation. For example, the current project in Gwithian Class involves learning about volcanoes and natural disasters and the Year 2 project is about Africa. Some projects have geographical elements running alongside the main project, for example, next term's project in Kynance Cove Class includes learning about rainforest environments alongside learning about plants and the Ancient Maya.

A major focus in English this year is further developing 'Reading for Pleasure' and the use of quality texts to enhance the different curriculum areas. There are loads of high-quality books with links to Geography, some of which can be found on the link below.

HIGH 5

High 5 is not on next Monday 16th March as the staff that run the club have other commitments.

Family Support Drop in sessions

Our very friendly and approachable family support advisor Mrs Sally Sharp will be holding a drop in session on Thursday 19th March 2 p.m. - 3.30 p.m. at school.

She can offer advice and support on a whole range of issues that impact on families and children, including parenting strategies and support for the wider family. So if you would like to speak to someone completely confidentially, or perhaps just need a friendly face to listen to you and work with you to give ideas, then please just pop-in!

Car Parking

Just a reminder that vehicles should not be parking on our neighbour's grass verge or parking on the road between the first bungalow past the top of the school and the entrance to the houses. Please respect the fact that the grass verges are private property, and also that parking on the road between the aforementioned areas makes it particularly difficult for larger vehicles/emergency vehicles to drive through. May we respectfully ask that you do not park your vehicle past the school premises.

Thank you for your support in this.

Marazion Messy Church – Sunday 15th March 4-6pm in Marazion Community Centre. We'll be hearing the bible story of Baby Moses – a story about loving and caring. We'll then be staying with that theme while we make things, sing, pray and eat together. Messy Church is for families who want a different sort of church.
